Information Technologist

Information Technologists answer computer related questions, investigate complaints and work with others in a team environment to resolve users' software and hardware problems.

What Do Information Technologists Do?

- Respond to users who are experiencing computer or software related problems
- Explain software errors to computer programmers and recommend changes to programs
- Arrange to have defective software and hardware products replaced or repaired
- Test hardware and software
- Train users on new applications
- Install and maintain hardware, software and peripheral equipment
- Install programs and analyze performance
- Maintain programs once they are in use

Where do Information Technologists work?

- AREVA and Cameco
- Manufacturing companies
- Schools and Colleges
- Governments
- Health Authorities and Health Regions

Job Titles

- Computer Specialist
- Information Technology Specialist
- Client Support Analyst
- Help Desk Support Analyst
- Information Clerk
- Technical Support Analyst

What characteristics do you need?

- Excellent oral and written communication skills
- Ability to pay close attention to details
- Good decision making and problem solving skills
- Aptitude for mathematics and science
- Remain patient and persistent when dealing with frustrating problems and users
- Work well under pressure and meet deadlines

Estimated Average Hourly Wage from Service Canada - Saskatchewan - $33.89/hour

Post-Secondary Institute

- University of Saskatchewan – Bachelor of Science in Computer Science
  - Degree Program
  - Require: Grade 12 with a minimum of 70% average including Math B30 and Math C30
  - Length: four-years

Career Ambassador Project
Community Vitality Monitoring Partnership Process
306-425-6883